BLOW UP TRUCK TO STEAL MINE PAYROLL TODAY

Nine Bandits Escape With $100,000 in East This Noon

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 11—(AP)—Blowing up an armored truck with a bomb while it was en route to the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company's Covendale Mine this afternoon, nine armed bandits escaped in an automobile with the payroll estimated to amount to $100,000. The driver of the truck and two armed guards were badly injured.

The automobile had proceeded from a Pittsburgh bank along the main highway in Bethel township and had turned into a side road to enter the mining camp when the explosion occurred.

The bomb, set off just as the armored car was going through an underpassage of the Monongahela Railroad, wrecked the automobile.

The bandits appeared seemingly from nowhere, grabbed the payroll and sped away in an automobile they had parked nearby.

Police and detectives found that all telephone wires in the vicinity of the Covendale mine had been severed. A line was ordered rerouted through nearby towns to establish telephone connections.

The armored car in which the payroll was transported, was supplied by the Brinks Express Company. The payroll was the second of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company stolen within two years. A year ago Christmas $48,000 was stolen in the holdup of a company payroll automobile and a guard was killed.

WALTON MAN IS "MAKING GOOD" WITH I. C. ROAD

Current Issue of Co. Magazine Tells of J. F. McMahon

The current issue of the Illinois Central Magazine contains the following paragraph concerning J. F. McMahon, a native of Lee county, who is making rapid strides in the service of that company:

Through a series of clerical, stenographic and agency positions, J. F. McMahon—born at Walton, Ill., and educated at Steinmann Institute, Dixon, Ill.,—rose to the post of assistant coal traffic manager of the Illinois Central System on March 1, 1925.

He entered the Illinois Central service in 1910 as a stenographer and clerk at Freeport, was transferred to Chicago three months later as stenographer to superintendent of transportation; 1912 found him a clerk in the local freight office at his old school town, Dixon, Ill., and after four years he went to the president's office as a stenographer.

Three years later Mr. McMahon was appointed secretary to the assistant to the president. And then followed consecutively, these transfers and promotions, secretary to freight traffic manager, city freight agent, Elmer, Ill., traveling freight agent, Mattoon, Ill., assistant chief clerk to general freight agent, secretary to General Manager Kittle during the war days of 1918, assistant commercial agent, chief clerk to general freight agent, and assistant coal traffic manager with office at Chicago.

Mrs. Emma Steacy of Dixon Died at Home of Daughter

Word was received here today of the death of Mrs. Emma Steacy of Dixon, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Lerdal of near Morrison. She had been a patient suffering for several months and leaves to mourn her death, six daughters and one son: Mrs. Alfred Engh of Dekalb, Mrs. John Kness of Morrison, Mrs. Elmer Smith of Aurora, Mrs. J. E. Agnew of Galt, Mrs. Theron Lerdal, Mrs. William Charvat and Lester Steacy of this city. Eighteen grandchildren five great grandchildren and a host of friends and distant relatives also mourn her death. Her husband predeceased her in death twelve years ago. Mrs. Steacy was a former resident of Sterling for a quarter of a century, and interment will be at the cemetery there Sunday afternoon, the hour of the services to be announced later.

Ashton Woman Died Suddenly in Night

Mrs. Emma McCade of Ashton died suddenly during the night at the Waukegan state hospital, where she was taken for treatment a few weeks ago, according to word received here this morning. Mrs. McCade was very well known in Ashton and in Dixon and was reported to be getting along well a few days ago. The remains will be taken to Ashton for burial.

Deserter from Navy is Captured in Bloomington

Bloomington, Ill., March 11—(AP)—Jack Ayers, alias John Chapman, deserter from the United States navy, was arrested at the postoffice yesterday afternoon by Chief of Police German when he went there to get his mail.

Ayers said last night that he had left the U. S. S. New York about 8 months ago and had been living in Bloomington since that time.

KIN MUST AGREE ON CUSTODY OF FORRESTON GIRL

Geneva Judge Awards Her Temporarily to Her Mother

Dorothy Scott, 16-year old Forreston high school girl, who was alleged to have been abducted by her mother, Mrs. R. J. Wolfe, wife of a wealthy Chicago physician, several weeks ago, will remain in the custody of her mother temporarily or until her relatives agree on some compromising action, according to a decision read by Judge Frank Shepard, in Kane county circuit court, late Wednesday.

Deputy Sheriff Rayn Hill represented Ogle county officials at the hearing, as a warrant, charging kidnapping against Dr. and Mrs. Wolfe was sworn out in Justice Mumma's court at Forreston immediately after the alleged abduction.

Plan New Action. The girl had been making her home with an uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. B. J. Wood, at Forreston, since the separation of her parents. Taken to Chicago by her alleged abductors, she succeeded in obtaining their release on a habeas corpus writ by insisting that she had requested her mother to "come and get her."

Dr. and Mrs. Wood and other relatives of the girl on her father's side, were said to be preparing to file a new court action which would return the girl to their charge.

UNION MINERS IN OHIO PREPARING TO CLOSE APR. 1

Prospects for Agree- ment on Wage Said to be Slight

Cleveland, Ohio, March 11—(AP)—Five thousand union coal miners in Ohio faced a general shutdown of all union mines in the state today unless a competitive wage scale is adopted before April 1, with the present wage agreement expires.

Following decision of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association to close all coal mines in Columbus last night that the present wage scale made it impossible for them to compete with miners in non-union fields, and an announcement from the United Mine Workers, that no wage agreement seemed possible, operators prepared to suspend mining in their fields.

The charges which served to recall miners last night, said that Mexican-circulated propaganda, according to the United States was the subject of the secret correspondence recently changed between the two governments.

Miners were enumerated in a long statement which contained quotations from what the representative terms a "printed insult."

Coincidental with the publication of the statement Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee added a new note to American Mexican controversy by serving notice that "no amount of criticism" would swerve him from the course he has pursued in connection with it.

Fog Caused Sinking of Ship in Channel of New York Harbor

New York, March 11—(AP)—The light that Liberty sheds upon the world was not bright enough today to dispel a fog that shrouded New York Bay and two freighters collided head on under the harbor's famous statue, one of them sinking and becoming a menace to navigation. In the channel, one of the busiest shipping lanes in all the world, only one ship was lost, John Brown, a ship's carpenter on the Southern Pacific freighter El Sol, the ship that sank. All other members of the crew of 44 were saved. The other craft in the collision, the American Diamond line freighter Sac City, was badly damaged but did not sink and none of the crew was injured.

Night Clerk Dragged Nice Pike from River

Charles Eshbaugh, night clerk at the Nachusa Tavern formally opened the fishing season here this morning by taking a four and one-half-pound wall-eye pike from Rock river near the dam. Charley is not the luckiest fisherman in the colony of many who line the bank almost every morning. But is consistent, and with the aid of Frank Edwards, a pioneer at the fishing game, brought the big beauty to a safe landing place after a good deal of maneuvering.

Roy Barron and Percy Heckman went to Oregon on business this afternoon.

NEGRO AND DEPUTY SHERIFF KILLED IN PISTOL DUEL IN DANVILLE DURING THE NIGHT

Danville, Ill., March 11—(AP)—A deputy with the sheriff and two other deputies, had gone to Williams' home to take him in custody on an insanity warrant. Williams left the room, circled through three other rooms and came back in a rear door, firing as he entered, with a revolver in each hand.

Williams was six feet three inches tall and weighed 205 pounds.

FIVE GENERATIONS IN FAMILY

Joynt; William Joynt, aged 67; Fred Joynt, 43; Mary Louise Sykes, 6 months, and Mrs. Al Sykes, 19.

Mrs. Joynt's children are William Joynt, Sr., of Dixon, Mrs. Lizzie Wooddyatt of Sterling and Ralph W. Joynt of Havana, Ill.

OLD MASTERS

Clear air and grassy lawns—Stream-sound and cattle-bells—Dear man, what fools are we
In prison walls to dwell!

Bright peaks!—and suddenly
Light floods the placid dell,
The grass-top brush my knee;
A good crop it will be!

Oh man, what fools are we
In prison wall to dwell!

Committee Will Be Appointed

At the next regular meeting of William E. Baldwin Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, a committee will be appointed to cooperate with the Department Orphans Home Committee. Orphans of Veterans of all wars are admitted to the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home at Normal, Illinois. Children of veterans, placed in this home, cannot at any time, be put out for adoption and can be removed from the home by the parent at will if in a position to give the child a good home.

This is a fine, well managed place, where children of veterans are given a grade and high school education and besides the three "B's", are taught domestic science and manual training and in many other ways, prepared to make honorable and respectable citizens.

Auxiliaries and other Veteran organizations are taking an active interest in this work. In 1926, through contributions received from Spanish War Veteran Auxiliaries throughout the state, a wading pool for the small children was constructed. In 1926, swings and slides were provided in a like manner.

The managing officer welcomes visitors at all times and it would be time well spent, if in the vicinity, to visit this educational institution, of which the state and the Veteran organizations are justly proud.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereals cooked with raisins, thin cream, boiled eggs, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked ham and celery with cheese, lettuce sandwiches, lemon snaps, milk, tea.

DINNER—English mutton, chops, boiled new potatoes in parsley butter, mashed turnips, orange and stuffed prunes, whole wheat rolls, quince bavarian cream, milk, coffee.

Be sure to use firm-fleshed naval oranges for the dinner salad. One fine large prune is placed in the center of each salad while the orange sections, free from skin, radiate from the prune. The effect is very pretty.

Baked Ham and Celery with Cheese
One cup finely chopped cooked ham, 1 cup diced parboiled celery, 1-2 cups grated cheese, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1-2 teaspoons salt.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add cheese. Boil two minutes. Put alternate layers of ham, celery and sauce into a well-buttered baking dish, starting with the last layer of sauce. Cover with cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Put into a hot oven until the cheese is melted and lightly browned in spots. Serve from baking dish.

Amboy Couple
Married Monday

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rosenbaum of Amboy announce the marriage of their daughter, Madelyn Elizabeth, to Harry J. Hecker, son of Mrs. Anna Hecker of near Amboy. The wedding ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock Monday, March 7, by Rev. T. A. Reams, pastor of the First M. E. church of Geneva.

Both bride and bridegroom are well known in the vicinity of Amboy. The bride's father, J. H. Rosenbaum, is foreman of the Illinois Central shop in the social life of the community.

Mr. Hecker is farming one of the best known farms in the country surrounding Amboy. It is known to many as the Happy Home farm and the newly married couple are now at home there. The best wishes of a host of friends in the community go with Mr. and Mrs. Hecker.

WOMEN DON'T SING

By Olive Roberts Barton
Rose Pastor Stokes wrote a little poem called "A Child's Heart."

In it she says, "The worm won't sing, the ugly thing."

A certain lady took exception to the statement, declaring that a German scientist had discovered in earthworms a sound rhythm that could be heard 12 feet away.

But she furthermore declares, what is more important and more to the point, that a child's heart does not beat even a worm as squirming and ugly until prejudiced by a supersensitive grown-up.

It is true. Childhood gets its cue from maturity. How careful parents should be before letting children.

A child of four or five has no world but his parents and older sisters and brothers. His mind is like soft wax that is slowly hardening. An impression made then hardens and remains, the warp cannot be ironed out.

There happened a thing in our own house one time that resulted in utter mental confusion for the children. We had read to them constantly stories of cute little mice, making Garry Tail a sort of hero deserving of sympathy because his arch-enemy, Mrs. Mouse, had tea parties and kept house and lectured her children and was quite a person. We even heard a little nursery pastime of pasting pussy willows on a card for the bodies of the little mice, drawing in the tail cars, whiskers and head with varying degrees of craftsmanship.

Mice to the children were of the genus fairy, at least quite as respectable and deserving of attention as Robin Redbreast and Grand-daddy Frog.

Some say our modern world is an adult's world. If this is true, think of the demands upon our youth of today! We must take time out for recreation. Camp will give opportunity for ingenuity, perseverance, efficiency, health and vigor.

Girls who are mostly interested in their own clique, or perhaps just contented with one pal, find in camp life that she has a real contribution to make and also that other girls have much to contribute to her. Her own needs are forgotten. She becomes melted into the group, that is, sense group consciousness. Until one gets in this they remain out of a group.

There is nothing like the play-ground of the out of doors for real growth, physical, social and spiritual.

The Women's Department of the Y. M. C. A. is at work planning a camp period for girls. We know location, equipment, staff and program are necessary, on as much as an end.

We have a fine staff appointed, and we need the cooperation of mothers and the support of them. A camp's worth is not determined by means but by results. To feel that the mothers are keenly interested and that we have their support means the best results. Remember, to play and work with our young people means that we are their camp, teaching them how to play the game. Life is a game and the way to play it is far more important than the score.

Mothers, think about this, and for information call the Y. It is not too late to be planning your daughter's vacation!

Balloon tired beauties —see them in our store

These easy riding Lloyd Carriages with soft corduroy padding and resilient "balloon" tires protect Baby from jolts and jars and all Mother's heart with pride.

Lloyd Loom weaving does away with loose ends and knots, affords a beautiful smooth surface that protects Baby against scratches, and his dainty clothes against tearing.

The Lloyd is a wonderful baby carriage investment. In every right strand is a steel center, an exclusive Lloyd feature which gives uniformity of weave and durability, obtainable at a reasonable price only because of the patented Lloyd Loom process which weaves 30 times faster than human hands.

A GRIM JOB FOR SCIENCE.

How it got here no one knows. It came from Europe, and 1917 is given as the date of its appearance. Its visit is costing the United States millions of dollars. It is the European corn borer.

A farmer in the Illinois corn belt was looking around in his fields one day when he discovered a tiny brown worm. He took it to the Kankakee county farm bureau. The adviser told him it was the corn borer and gave the news to the world.

The borer showed up mysteriously in Massachusetts in 1917. It has multiplied and spread until now its domain is a region of 100,000 miles. It has moved in all directions with the corn. If conditions are to its liking it can destroy an entire crop of corn.

In western New York many sweet corn growers lost their crops for the last two seasons; others took losses of 50 per cent. Now, with Indiana and Illinois menaced, serious possibilities lie just ahead for the national corn crop.

In the central states corn belt the annual production of corn runs to two and three billions of dollars. If the borer gets to playing with this crop, food prices may go to unheard of figures.

Experts have racked their brains. Congress has appropriated $10,000,000 to war on the pest. No dusts or sprays reach the evil invader because it burrows too deep. There has even been some discussion of establishing nation-wide cornless zones to fight the worm somewhat after the way rangers fight a forest fire.

The grim siege goes on. Here is an enemy no bigger than a man's little finger, and it is eating the cash right out of his wallet, but he can't pin it down. Science must find the way.

WAS THIS THE REASON?

New York has a new law which makes it obligatory for a judge to sentence to life imprisonment any prisoner who already has been sent to jail three times.

In a protest, Samuel Newberger, a New York man of some note in his home town, arises to say that putting criminals in jail will not prevent crime.

To be sure it won't. Perhaps we shall have crime always with us on this mundane sphere. It is our heritage since Adam and Cain. It goes on and on.

But, it is possible that the New York legislature, in passing the life law, so acted with the idea that the law might fail to prevent crime, but at least it would prevent crime on the part of those criminals it placed behind the bars for life.

It may have occurred to them that the best place for a criminal is in jail.

NEW YORK FINALLY CATCHES ON.

One hates to say it, but it is impossible to escape the impression that New York, after all, is just a little bit behind the times.

The New York newspapers have become vastly excited during the last few days because they have found there a lady barber, who runs a shop for the patronage of men. This estimable lady has been held up as one of the modern wonders of the world. There is a sort of 'what won't we up-to-date New Yorkers do next?' note in all the stories about her.

Well, probably that is something to get excited about—in New York.

But it is a good many years since we first saw a barber shop run by ladies. There has been one, to be explicit, in Kansas City for a number of years. Other western cities had them before Kansas City. In most of them the idea is so old that nobody thinks twice about it.

Of course, it isn't important.

But somehow, you can't help feeling that New York, every now and then, catches on to something that is an old, old story to the rest of the country—and thinks it has made a discovery!

The Senate quit busting and went to filibustering. May be the session of Congress just closed could be appropriately called a bust. . . . Webster says a filibuster is an attempt to delay legislation by "dilatory motions or other artifices." The voters will be glad to know they've sent dilators to Washington instead of legislators. . . . One senator hid in the cloak-room so long that another who came in for his coat handed him a dime and asked for a brush. . . . No wonder the vaudeville houses in Washington don't do well. . . . It's too bad the senators haven't bicycles. They could stage a six-day race and make expenses.

More gold has been discovered in Nevada. The state may be rich enough soon for Mr. Rickard to hold another fight there.

Twenty-five thousand people joined in a diamond rush in South Africa, says a news dispatch. But just wait until June!

Ukuleles are being made with one string now. It appears several steps have been taken in the right direction and it is hoped the movement will not stop here.

"Sends 3,000,000 telegrams," says a headline. We wonder if the 3,000,000th one brought the money.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"What shall we do?" wee Copy said. "Let's tickle him around the head, and wake him up. I really think he's looking quite forlorn. The farmer Boy Blue's working for, would likely be real mad, and roar, if he just know that poor Boy Blue was not among the corn."

And so they got a piece of hay and started to gently play. They tickled Boy Blue 'till he rose. He heaved a couple sighs. The Times almost had to roar. And then they tickled him some more, until he slowly moved a bit; then opened up his eyes.

You surely would have laughed to see how very much surprised was he when all the little Times, in a loud voice, said, "Hello." Boy Blue jumped up and looked around and when his voice he finally found, he quickly said, "Well, who are you? That's what I'd like to know."

"Oh, we're just TINYMITES. That's

palling realization of the fact that as Cherry's sister, she was the cynosure of all eyes.

She had hardly time to look about her, timidly, fearfully, at the crowded amphitheater, at the district attorney, Tom Banning arriving late, importantly, attended by clerks and assistants district attorneys, bearing law books and portfolios of legal documents and suitcases, presumably filled with gruesome exhibits, when a heightening of the dull roar made by the babbling audience made her giddiness toward the door at the left of the main entry just a little.

There, looking like a very little and a very frightened child, stood Cherry, gowned on either side by a tall, rangy deputy sheriff, the badges of the office on their lapels, heavy black-buttoned pistols protruding from leather holsters strapped about their waists.

Cherry paused as if for an anticipated cheer from her audience. It is doubtful if anyone in that courtroom had ever seen a more beautiful or appealing sight than Cherry presented as she hesitated upon the threshold of her fight for life.

The plainest of the four dresses which Faith had designed and made for her made her look even tinier than she was, for it was a straight, clinging black sheath of lustrous satin-backed crepe, reaching decorously to two inches below her knees. A wide, round white organdy collar, and deep, daring cuffs of the same crepe, sheer stuff were in striking contrast to the shiny black crepe and gave to her exquisite, childish face a purity and paler which should have satisfied even Stephen Churchill.

Stephen Churchill, as chief counsel for the defense, rose from the long table where he and his two assistants had been conferring, and came to meet them.

"Glad to see you, Miss Faith. You are looking beautiful today," Churchill said in unctuous tones. "Sit here, Mr. Lane. Miss Cherry can sit between you. This seat all right for you, Hathaway?" he asked good-naturedly, indicating a seat immediately behind the chair in which he had placed Faith. "I'll sit here, at the table, right in front of Miss Churchill and Miss Faith, so I can consult my client without difficulty. All right?"

Faith was glad of his busting cordiality, for it served to divert her mind for the moment from the appeal which was the color of coral, innocent as it was of lipstick, and between the long, curling fingers of her brown fingers her wide, round, golden eyes glowed like imprisoned candle flames.

Her glorious copper and gold hair, which had not been cut since her arrest, hung in adorable, childish curls about her rounded, camellia-white cheek, so long that they almost touched the flaring, crisp collar of white organdy. She looked not more than twelve years old, as she stood there, frightened, lips parted, breathless, appealing.

TOMORROW: Chris Wiley, Cherry's husband and co-defendant, is stricken with a serious illness. (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

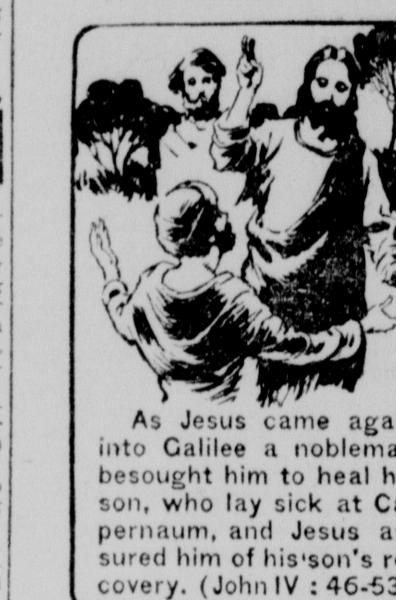

Interviews With Jesus

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

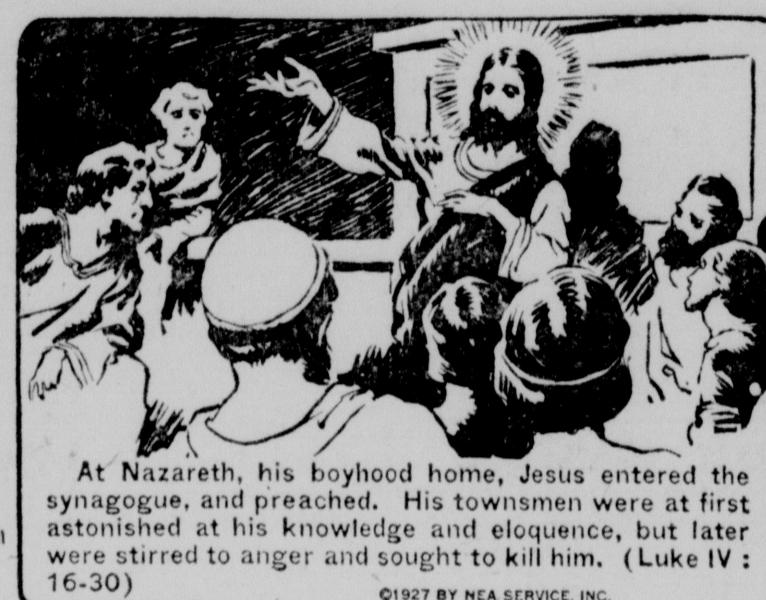

SKETCHES BY KROESIN

To the Woman at Jacob's Well, Jesus gave his great teaching, "God is a spirit and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." (John IV: 24)

To Nicodemus, "a ruler of the Jews," who came to him by night, Jesus expounded the doctrine of the new life: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." (John III: 1-21)

At Nazareth, his boyhood home, Jesus entered the synagogue, and preached. His townsmen were at first astonished at his knowledge and eloquence, but later were stirred to anger and sought to kill him. (Luke IV: 16-30)

SELF-APPRAISAL OF HEALTH BEING TAKEN IN STATE

Cities Co-operating in Health Survey Under State Direction

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—A new inventory of municipal health service in the larger cities of the state which will amount to a self-appraisal by local health officers, is now under way in Illinois, Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director announced.

All cities of 30,000 or more, except Chicago, are included in the project. Account will be made as closely as possible of every dollar spent and of every service performed whether official or voluntary and these factors will be weighed against the apparent results obtained. Each city will be appraised on a percentage basis and compared with what is regarded as minimum standard practice and with each other as well.

"Last year state officials made an examination of municipal health service in the fifteen leading cities," said Dr. Rawlings, "and reported an average of fifty per cent efficient, although four of the cities enjoyed first class health protection. This year each local health officer is taking his own measure and that of his city, using the same form and system as that employed last year.

The findings will be compiled by the state department of public health and combined into a single report. This report, which will be available to all interested citizens, will bring out the points of excellence and the shortcomings of each city and offer recommendations for improvements where such is indicated.

"Developments already reported during 1926 will make significant differences in the ratings of several cities this year. Thus, Evanston, which stood highest last year, has replaced a part-time with a full-time health officer and strengthened one or two weak spots in communicable disease control. Springfield has opened an isolation hospital and open-window school and hired a milk inspector. Decatur has improved its vital statistic record keeping. Nearly all of the fifteen cities have made distinct progress toward the control of diphtheria and smallpox vaccination.

"The cities in which the health officers have undertaken self appraisal include the following: Bloomington, Cicero, East St. Louis, Evanston, Oak Park, Quincy, Peoria, Rockford, Rock Island, Springfield, Decatur, Moline, Aurora and Danville."

BEAUTIFUL TREE AT WHITE HOUSE A HISTORIC LINE

Symmetrical Oak Came from Russia During T. R. Term

Washington—(AP)—Few of the thousands who visit the White House annually and, perhaps, observe a symmetrical oak on the western terrace, are aware either of its historic lineage.

The tree was planted there in President Roosevelt's day as a token of friendship between the United States and Russia. It was born, so to speak, of exalted American parents at Peterhof, on the shore of the Finnish Gulf, 16 miles west of the ancient Russian capital.

Former Secretary Hitchcock of the Interior Department, one-time ambassador to Russia, told the story of the oak, in a memorandum written years ago. During his term as ambassador, he related, he inquired as to the disposition of some acorns from Mount Vernon which Charles Sumner, then senator from Massachusetts, had sent to the Czar. They had been planted, he learned, on what was known as Czarina Island in the grounds of the imperial palace at Peterhof.

"There I found a beautiful oak," he wrote, "with a tablet at its foot bearing a Russian inscription, a translation of which is as follows: 'The acorn planted here was taken from an oak which shades the tomb of the celebrated and never to be forgotten Washington. It is presented to H. L. M. the emperor of all the Russians as a sign of the greatest respect, by an American.'

"I was fortunate at the time of my visit, which was in the fall of 1893, in finding a number of acorns on the ground that had dropped from the historic tree. Gathering a handful, I sent them home and secured from the seeds thus planted a few saplings, one of which here and now planted with the kind permission of President Roosevelt in the ground of the White House, while another is to be planted side its grandparent, which is still in existence at Mount Vernon, both of which young trees I hope will reach such age and strength as will in years to come typify the continued friendship of the governments and people, respectively, of the United States and Russia for each other."

Roosevelt and James Wilson, then secretary of agriculture, assisted in the planting on the White House lawn.

Bits of News From Leaguers in Their Camps

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Schalk of the White Sox played in yesterday's tilt at Shreveport between two nine of his training group but the squad to which he assigned himself lost 5 to 3.

The Cubs face their first real test under fire today against the Los Angeles Coast League team at Los Angeles.

Babe Ruth today was hors de combat. He was disabled yesterday at Orlando when the Yanks beat Cincinnati, 8-5. On the way to third in the midst of a fourth inning rally, his foot became involved in a wrestling match with the bag. He was tripped and limped off the field with a wrenching ankle and strained the road.

Stuffy McInnis, the new manager, brings to the club experiences gained in eighteen years of major league baseball, including five world series, with three clubs. He has not demanded the impossible of his players and they are under no managerial command to go out and win a championship.

The threat of the club lies in a great pitcher brought over from last year, the addition of a sensational young infielder, several pitchers who should be better than they have shown and two recruits who are back from the minors after previous big league success with the Indians.

Lafayette F. Thompson, youngster, will add strength to the infield at second base. Heinie Sand will again play short and Barney Friberg will take care of third. Wrightstone will play first base assuming he will show improvement in his defensive work. There is no question about his hitting.

The outfield is carried over from the previous campaign. Fred Leach will play one position with the other two to be divided between Al Nixon, Cy Williams and Johnny Mokan.

The Phillips say they have nothing to be ashamed of in their catching staff with Jimmy Wilson, Clarence Jonnard and Harry O'Donnell.

Three new pitchers certain to be retained are Herb Prueett, John Scott and Alex Ferguson. Carlson, star of last year's staff, has four of his co-workers with him, Ulrich, Willoughby, Dean and Mitchell.

Off to a poor start against American League clubs the Reds today cross bats at their Orlando camp with the St. Louis Browns.

With the first intra-club game over Manager Bush today began smoothing out the rough spots in the Pirate machine at Paseo Robles, Calif.

At St. Petersburg, Fla., the Braves lost to Cleveland 5-3, in a ten inning game.

The hit and run play, one of Cobb's pet bits of strategy, will be minimized in the offensive plans of the Detroit team this year. Manager Morris has let it be known at the training camp at San Antonio.

Fonseka, costly utility infielder added to the Cleveland Indians this season, has fulfilled all hopes for him in practice games so far.

"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Bob Ward, a poverty-stricken engineering student who is working his way through college by whatever job he can get at the college employment bureau, is informed by his two chums, Freddy and Arch, that they have found an easy and profitable way to earn money—by working as dancing partners, of all hours, for rich women in a fashionable New Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but, faced with eviction for unpaid rent, reluctantly agrees to go to the roadhouse, remembering his bitter four year battle with poverty.

Bob had even pledged himself in debt to get through this all-important senior year. The University authorities, the Employment Bureau, the professors, his mates, all had been bully. But this was undoubtedly a strain and a sacrifice far beyond what any other working university student had ever been called upon to make; there was nothing for Bob to do but fight his way out, somehow.

Then the offer from his two sworn chums, Freddy and Arch, who had scouted the roadhouse work, entertaining the so-called "Matinee Ladies," had immediately spoken up to the Proprietress of the Inn for their hard-pressed friend.

Many of these matters Bob Ward reviewed in his mind during the ride down to the Fort Lee ferry, the pleasant trip across the swirling river in the bright early afternoon sunshine of a glorious Spring day, and the rapid flight in a great bus through a bristling woods that fringed the rim of the upper Palisades like a coxcomb; to the secluded and exclusive Palisado Inn.

Far, far from the nearest town, nestled in a ten-acre private pre-

A buxom and capable and mar-

The girl who was the object of Bob's startled glance returned it. She had a square head, and its upper windows like piggy eyes, above the copse. A great spider watching for flies; a mammoth bus leering its dominion over the crawling things, the buzzing things, of the surrounding woods. Normal life passed by the Palisado Inn. The life that frolicked and seethed within its too-gaily-toned walls was the uneven, unfurled life of flies rampant in a deserted honey hive.

Madame Leonine, eh? She looked all of her name, Bob's eyes, told him, wryly. Her head was the physically grand and upright head of a lioness. Her plump arms, her buttressed front—fleshy fortress, as it were, protecting the rest of her—her laced-in hips, did convey something of a lioness. A rather jungle-worn lioness, who had bred many litters.

"Pleased to meet you!" mumbled Bob, with a smile which was not so much the result of a sincerity in his phrased expression as in a whimsical suspicion occurring to him at the moment, that no doubt a casual inspection of her back would reveal a mane and a tail, the turtled tail of a bonnie lioness.

Bob was conscious of a peculiar sensation of stickiness, of heaviness, of sugary sweat, that left in his mouth the taste of an over-sweetened stimulant, that made his head feel a bit too light, as he stepped into the bowered side entrance of the inn.

All the way over from the campus he had been subjected to a barrage of bantering by his exuberant friends—nice boys, both, Freddy and Arch, but, without a serious purpose in the world other than the wherewithal for the day. Scholastic standing was the last, the minutest, of their cares. The future sat gently upon their heads. "Old Soberalls," they dubbed Bob, rolling.

A moment after entering the inn, Freddy and Arch, as with one accord, turned to enjoy the expression that they expected would be upon Bob's face when he should see for the first time, the gaudy, hot, whirling interior of a fashionable roadhouse dance hall. They saw an expression that they did not expect.

"For the love of Hannah," exclaimed Freddy, "would you look at old Sackcloth and Ashes!"

For the novitiate, Bob's eyes were wide and starry and filled with the sudden vision of the prettiest girl he had ever seen.

CHAPTER III
It was, evidently, a reciprocal glad amaze. For the girl who was the object of Bob's startled glance was returning it with interest. It was quaintly as though neither of them had ever expected to behold the likes of the other in such a ribald place.

She was rather an incredible chit.

Investigating Shortage of a Former Co. Officer

Bloomington, Ill., March 10—(AP)—State's Attorney James A. Light was called before the board of supervisors today to advise the members of the board regarding the action to be taken relative to investigating the deficit announced by Auditor S. E. Simms in the accounts of former Sheriff J. E. Morrison.

Mr. Light noted that in looking over some of the accounts of Mr. Morrison, he found some mistakes in addition. He further advised that he wanted to hold a meeting of the county officers' committee. Auditor Simms, Mr. Morrison and his bookkeeper and himself to go over the accounts to see where the discrepancy lies to learn Mr. Morrison's contention.

There can be no criminal liability in withholding public funds by a public officer until after the expiration of his term, Mr. Light declared.

Mr. Morrison advised the county officers committee that he intends to have an audit of the accounts of his office made by an expert accountant.

CHILDREN'S SORE THROAT

Mothers know that children's sore throats are serious, often leading to tonsillitis, scarlet fever or diphtheria. Also that it is hard to treat because the usual remedy is a gargle and children can not gargle.

A famous physician's prescription called "Ottosine" works on new principle—goes direct to the cause not reached by gargles and patent medicines and brings relief within 15 minutes or money back.

And the remarkable thing about it is it contains no iron, chloroform or dope—harmless and safe, pleasant taste. Remember, relief within 15 minutes or money back. 35c, 60c and $1.00. Rowland's Pharmacy and all good druggists—Adv.

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Menth-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Menth-Sulphur from any good druggist.

The agricultural outlook for 1927 given out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture might be of interest to our farmers before planning their program for the coming season. This department has been making the forecasts for the past five years and have been 90 percent efficient.

Wheat.

Wheat growers can scarcely expect returns for 1927 crop similar to the 1926 crop especially since acreage has increased materially.

The demand for 1927 corn is expected to be little, if any, greater than for the 1926 crop. With probable increases of corn acreage in the South and no probability of increased demand for corn in 1927, corn growers are faced with the prospect of lower prices unless acreage is substantially reduced.

oats and Barley.

Feeding demand is increasing but the market value will be determined largely by the supply of these and other feed grains.

Beef Cattle.

With beef cattle marketings in 1927 probably materially less than in 1926 and the demand for beef maintained, prices of slaughter and feeder cattle are expected to average somewhat higher in 1927. On the whole, cattle prices are expected to continue upward.

Hogs.
